HISTORICAL NOTE	In 1995 the Automotive Food Metals and Engineering Union amalgamated with the Printing and Kindred Industries Union to become the Automotive Food Metals Engineering Printing and Kindred Industries Union, otherwise known as the Australian Manufacturing Workers' Union. Both the AFMEU and the PKIU had long lineages from the nineteenth century. On the metal industry side, the forerunners included: Amalgamated Engineering Union (1852-1972)(q.v.); Boilermakers and Blacksmiths Society (1880-1972) (q.v.); Sheetmetal Workers Industrial Union of Australia (1881-1972) (q.v.); the Shipwrights Union (1847-1976) (q.v.); the Federated Moulders (Metals) Union (1858-1983) (q.v.); Association of Draughting, Supervisory and Technical Employees (1917-1991) (q.v.); Vehicle Builders Employees Federation (1873-1993) (q.v.); Food Preservers and Confectionery Workers of Australia (q.v.). On the PKIU side, the PKIU formed in 1966 with the amalgamation of the Printing Industry Employees' Union of Aust. (PIEUA) and the Amalgamated Printing Trades Employees Union of Aust. The PIEUA was federally registered in 1917 but the Victorian Branch did not finally come into existence until 1920 following the successive amalgamation of several Victorian printing unions with a long nineteenth century lineage: Melbourne Typographical Union (1867-1916) then Victorian Typographical Society/Union (1916-1921) the Bookbinders and Paper Rulers Union, Vic. Br. (1857-1921); Cardboard Box and Carton Employees Union, Vic. Br. (1906-1921); Women Bookbinders and Stationery Employees Union, Vic. Br. (1907-1921).
